My name is Denis Occhiali and, with over 20 years in IT and web development, I have coordinated teams and managed complex projects. I currently work with an Italian company, leading the development of solutions for AXA Italia, with a particular focus on digitalization and the integration of advanced APIs.

Since 2024 I have brought artificial intelligence into the way I work: I develop with several models that review each other, and I have built a system of agents that supports me in managing projects. It is the experience I now offer clients through Does Consultoria.

My passion for innovation and my commitment to quality drive me to create efficient digital solutions that bring value to both clients and teams.
